

Ankita Ghosh

Ankita Ghosh is a Credit Risk Analyst at Barclays, currently part of the Collections Team, where she works on the Partner Finance product and has successfully delivered on a key regulatory project. She holds a Master's degree in Economics, where she was awarded a Gold Medal for academic excellence and served as the Placement Coordinator. Ankita co-authored the paper "Climate Change and Tourism: Assessing the Nexus and Climate-Related Disasters in Diverse Economies," published in the Journal of Cleaner Production. An economics graduate from Delhi University, she was an active member of the Economics Department Council and contributed to the editorial team of the annual magazine Neeti. Outside her professional career, Ankita is an avid reader with a passion for painting and crafts, demonstrating her creativity and attention to detail.